Our Forests provide jobs to over 1.6 billion people, absorb harmful carbon from the atmosphere, and are key ingredients in 25% of all medicines.

Trees play a key role in capturing rainwater and reducing the risk of natural disasters like floods and landslides. Every year hundreds of thousands of volunteers comb beaches and coastlines around the world to clean this debris. These materials are also called "marine debris" or "marine pollution" and their quantity has been increasing due to anthropocentric activities. These pollutants may harm marine life and ecology, human health, and coastal tourism.^[3] Hartley et al.'s study shows that environmental education is important to eliminate many beach pollutants on beaches and the marine environment.
